City Budget Passed—Barely

Faced with the possibility of beginning a fiscal year with no money in the till, the Belle Glade City Commission accepted the 1974-75 budget Monday night, reluctantly and on a 5-3 vote.

With pressure being applied from four taxpayers during a public hearing concerning increased revenues from property taxes, the commission first decided to hold another budget session to see if there were some ways to trim the budget.

But when City Attorney said they had no choice but to accept the budget, and authorize the same as a violent tax millage hike, the commission adopted it—$3,681,741 of it.

Commissioner Bill Bailey made the motion to accept the budget as it stood, and Commissioner William Gear seconded it and they received the winning vote from Mayor Aubrey Farmer.

Voting he was newly re-elected Commissioner Ralph Kirk, who had offered the earlier motion to re-study the budget in an effort to find some way to trim it and hold the line on the actual amount of taxes required.

The public hearing was required by law because Palm Beach County Tax Assessor David Reid had certified that 7,000 mills of ad valorem tax would generate the same revenue as had the 10 mills assessed last year.

The commission decided in earlier budget sessions to hold the millage at the 10 mill limit set by law in an effort to produce the reassessment of property in the city which took place this past year.

The city will receive a total of $388,870 in revenues from real and personal property taxes, compared to $388,354 last year; a $515,516 increase without increasing the millage.

Dr. Mendel J. Luce was the most vociferous opponent to holding the line on the millage.

Luce said he realized the economy is in an inflationary period and that costs of government "are spiraling upward like everything else."

"But it seems to me," he said, "that government can't go along the line should be the first to tighten up its belt. Housewives and small businessmen have already tightened up their belts."

Luce said the assessment on one of these pieces of property was increased by 25 percent and, "I feel that now I would certainly expect a decrease in the millage rate. We shouldn't hold the line. It should drop."

Glades merchants should let their customers know the law if they want to solve the earlier motion to re-study the budget in an effort to find some way to trim it and hold the line on the actual amount of taxes required.

City Engineers Warned

Belle Glade City Commissioners put A.J. Birchall, representing city engineers Briley-Wild and Associates, on notice they were dissatisfied with his recently report concerning a variety of city projects.

Commissioner Bill Bailey took the lead in attempting to pin Birchall down on particulars concerning the relocation of utility lines necessary to four-lane SR80 through the city limits and the proposed improvements to the city water system.

Mayor Aubrey Farmer asked Birchall when he last had been in contact with the State Department of Transportation on the utility relocation project and Birchall said it was, "about a month."

"The last word I heard," Farmer said, "was that the City of Belle Glade is holding up SR80." He confirmed with City Attorney John Baker that this was what Baker had been told in a meeting with DOT officials three weeks ago.

Birchall under Bailey's questioning, said his phase of the planning should be complete "sometimes in October" and when Bailey pressed for precise data, Birchall said Nov. 1.

"That's 30 days behind schedule," said Bailey. He also attempted to pin Birchall on what Briley-Wild had accomplished in the past month on the water system improvement project.

Birchall said in his report, "an airplane is waiting in Okeechobee City for the weather to clear" to get photographs of Krasner Island to help the city decide where to run a line to a proposed new raw water intake.

"As I understand it," Bailey said, "you're going to be coming here to make monthly reports. Is it too much to ask for you to bring these things (information on the projects) with you?"

"I can't see you coming all this way with nothing to show us," Bailey said, "and we're paying one of the reasons our budget is so high this year is to pay you. I don't care if it takes us more money, we want the job done."

Birchall had begun his report with a detailed report on what had been accomplished on the sewer improvement and expansion project and said he understood this was the number one priority.

"It's my understanding," Bailey said, "that every project we have with Briley-Wild has a number one priority. It seems to me you're dragging your feet again."

"I was the one," he continued, "who held the city and Briley-Wild together in the past but if you can't give a better report next time, I'll be ready to vote with the others."

Birchall said he had thought the commission was particularly interested in the sewer project, "but I guess I should have come prepared to cover the broad spectrum. I'll try to do better next time."

In other action:

•The commission agreed to authorize a Fort Lauderdale firm to remove junk cars from city streets. The firm will crush and remove the cars immediately, paying the city $10 for each one.

•City Clerk Vera Jones swore in to office newly elected Commissioner Tom Altman and Commissioner Ralph Kirk, re-elected in the election now being contested in court by his opponent, Jerry Roberts.

Mayor Aubrey Farmer wanted to go ahead and hold the organizational meeting to determine who will be mayor and who will be vice-mayor during the coming year but City Attorney John Baker advised against it.

Baker said there is some question about whether Altman could vote in such a meeting before Oct. 1. The organizational meeting was set for 8 a.m. Oct. 1.

•The commission authorized Baker to represent the city in the suit filed by Roberts. Baker said he hoped he and Roberts' attorney, Tom Montgomery, could agree on many of the facts surrounding the case before going into court.

Baker said he would like to see the decision handed down as soon as possible and seek the circuit judge handling the case has indicated this is how he feels also.

This is Jerry Thomas Day!

Tickets for the Jerry Thomas Testimonial and Fund Raising Dinner set for tonight have already been sold out according to Glades Republican Club President Robert Pease.

"We've already sold about 300 tickets," Pease said Tuesday, "and that's all the Country Club will hold, but for those who missed out on trying to buy a ticket, Jerry will be at an open house that afternoon (today) at the Glades Republican Headquarters.

The headquarters is located at 63 S.E. Ave E and Pease said Thomas will be there from 4 to 5 p.m. today.

Thomas is scheduled to fly into Ft. Lauderdale Airport at 11:45 a.m. and is expected to lunch with the Belle Glade Lions Club.

From there, Pease said the Republican gubernatorial candidate will drive to Ft. Lauderdale for a short visit. Leaving Ft. Lauderdale, he will return to Belle Glade and tour the county office building and city facilities.

The top local winner will enter the contest at the state level.

Mrs. Pease said there will also be four cash prizes, with winners receiving $25, $15, $10 and $5 respectively.

For further information, Mrs. Pease said she can be contacted at 996-5546 or 996-3540.

Pease said the dinner, with tickets costing $12 per person, is meant partially as a testimonial dinner and event as a fund-raising event.

Menninger Satisfied, Irritated at GCI

Dr. Karl Augustus Menninger expressed both satisfaction and irritation Monday when he visited Glades Correctional Institution.

"I like this institution," the internationally known prison reformer said. "I like the supervision. I like the atmosphere, what I've seen of it and I'd like to see more of it."

But Menninger expressed irritation several times with the large press entourage he had attracted, telling a television cameraman at one point to "get that light out of my eyes."

"You were invited to meet me," he said, "but I wasn't invited to meet you. I was invited to see this institution. I've heard a lot about it and I wanted to see it."

Speaking to the crowd of reporters, judges, law enforcement officers, attorneys, priests and inmates who gathered in the GCI Chapel following a partial tour of the institution, Menninger said he was no judge of penal institutions.

"I don't know why you came to see me," he said. "I'm not a former prisoner, though I wouldn't try to hide it if I were, and I'm not a former warden, though I'd be proud of it if I were."

"I'm just a doctor," he said, "a retired doctor if you please. But I'm glad to know I'm the reason you citizens of Florida come out and hear something about your institution."

"I don't know how long you're going to let it simmer," Menninger said, referring to the heat in the dormitories and other buildings. "That's up to you Floridians, but if you want 'em to simmer, let 'em aren't beaten any more. He said patients in mental institutions were once beaten and that society doesn't have the time or money to spend beating up people any more."

It's that time of the year again for all of you football fans—not forgetting yours truly.

Glades Central High School opened its football season against Atlantic and fought to a 6-6 tie with the mighty Eagles.

The pre-game ceremony of raising the stars and stripes gave a warning of what was to come in the game as the flag got stuck at halfmast when the Star Spangled Banner was being played. It finally made its way all the way to the top during the first few plays of the game.

Dean and I decided to go to the game together so I could jot a few notes while he busies himself taking pictures—rather tried to. It may be a replay of last year's heartaches as we found out over the weekend. Guess either the film we took the pictures with or the developed we used was bad and as a result we got nothing—a total blank. Not even a few black spots.

Sorry to have you miss our on all those wonderful pictures Dean took, but maybe they weren't so great after all—I mean, I didn't get to take any. (Just a little fun there, Dean)

During the first half of the game I thought the officials had invented a new game there of throwing the handkerchief or, flag. Everytime you turned around it looked as if they were cheering the players on in a bullfight. That football went up and down the field so many times on penalties if it had eyes it would be dizzy.

As the Miami Herald put it, maybe the officials did want to play in the game this time instead of watching it.

Things got a little better though, in the second half anyway.

One thing struck me though while I was looking around at the crowd there the other night. I'm not sure but it seems there were more Atlantic Eagle fans there than Raider tooters, which is odd, especially in the first game of the season.

Speaking of fans, one family in this town who has to be number one in football is the Riley Foster family. Missing them at a football game is like breakfast without orange juice—or a day without sunshine.

All four Foster brothers were out on the sidelines helping out in some way or other, all the way from Riley Foster, Jr. who helps coach the Raiders, to 14-year old Mark who keeps the game balls for the officials, besides also playing on the Junior High team.

I saw Mr. Foster up in the stands and although I didn't see his wife, I'm sure she was around there somewhere.

Another of the Glades schools didn't fare so well in its season opener. Glades Day School lost 15-6, but I'm sure they're raring to meet their next opponent and try to even it up.

On to a little professional football. Miami Dolphins aren't faring so well this season so far, after losing to the New England Patriots 24-24 and then moving past Buffalo 24-16. Of course they have been upset by some injuries too.

My prediction (how many predictions have you heard) is Coach Singa will get them all together and they will win a third Super Bowl. If they don't a lot of people are really going to be disappointed, including yours truly.

Raiders-Eagles Fight to 6-6 Tie

Not only did the Glades Central Raiders find Friday what it's like to kiss their sisters, two of the key players in the 6-6 tie with the Atlantic Eagles will be out of action this week against North Shore.

Senior safety Bernard Hammond, who stopped the Eagles' first offensive drive at his own 20-yard line, will be out with an injured knee.

Running back Alexander Brown, who caught Rigo

Ruis's pass to score the Raiders' only points in the game, will be out with a shoulder separation.

The offsetting scores in the game with the Eagles, who defeated the Raiders in a rain-drenched opener in 1973, came in the second and third quarters.

Atlantic's halfback, Chuck Jones scored on the first play after a bad hike from center forced Ruis to get off a hurried, 13-yard punt from his own end zone.

The Raiders' score came in the third quarter as Ruis hit Brown in the flat on the Eagle 20-yard line and Brown juggled the ball all the way into the end zone. Neither extra point attempt was successful.

Atlantic took the opening kickoff before a crowd of 2,000 fans in Memorial Stadium and marched to the Raider 20-yard line before safety Bernard Hammond intercepted a Lee Wilder pass at his own 14 to stop the drive.

Three plays later, junior linebacker Anthony Burger broke over left guard for 42 yards out to the Atlantic 43 yard line but the Raider drive stalled and Rigo Ruis punted to the Atlantic 21 yard line.

As the second quarter started, Atlantic's Steve Griffith punted a 61-yard kick over the heads of the Raiders secondary to put the ball back on the Raider 34 yard line.

After a holding penalty set the Raiders back on their own 14 yard line, Dicky Sweet countered the ball over the punter's head.

Ruis made a great effort to punt the ball out of the end zone and the ball rolled dead at the 13 yard line.

Atlantic scored on the next play as Jones cut back over his own left tackle for 13 yards and the touchdown. Raider noseman Calvin Willis blocked the try for point and the Eagles went to the dressing room with a 6-0 lead.

At the half, the Raider offense had only made two first downs.

The Raiders took the second half kickoff and marched to the Eagle 34 yard line before a holding penalty killed the drive. Ruis punted to the Eagle 18 yard line.

After one first down, the Raiders' defense got a break when Charles Small recovered an Eagle fumble on the Atlantic 31 yard line. Three plays later, Ruis found

Brown in the flat and Brown raced into the end zone to tie up the score. Following the unsuccessful PAT forced by a bad snap, each team made one more effort to break the tie with a scoring drive. The Raider drive was broken up on the 28 yard line when Atlantic's safety intercepted Ruler's pass intended for Anthony Burger.

Raiders Tie First Game

Atlantic drove to the Raider 24 yard line when they were faced with a fourth and four situation and opted to go for it. Quarterback Lee Wilder was dropped for no gain by Cornelius Brown, David Jones and David Kinlaw. When three attempts to run the ball by the Raiders were smothered by a strong Atlantic defense, Ruler punted out of Glades Central territory and the game ended minutes later with the ball on the Atlantic 28 yard line.

Anthony Burger led the Raider ground attack with 66 yards in nine carries, followed by Howard Moses with 29 yards in eight carries and Alexander Brown with 22 yards in five carries.

Rigo Ruiz hit on three of nine passes for 44 yards and one touchdown.

Chuck Jones led the Atlantic attack with 69 yards in ten carries. He was followed by Luther Mosley with 58 yards in 12 carries and fullback Elijah Jones, who rushed for 29 yards in nine carries.

Lee Wilder was only one for five in the passing game. The completion was good for 10 yards and he had one pass intercepted. Most of the honors of the day went to the defense as neither defensive unit allowed a long drive for a touchdown.

Charles Small, Cornelius and Calvin Willis led the Raider defense with eight tackles each. They were followed closely by Ernie Jackson, Anthony Parrish and David Kinlaw, who had six each. David Jones, Michael Washington and Willie Wright had five each. Larry Good led Atlantic with nine tackles.

Cornelius Brown was selected for the Raider defensive player of the week for this outstanding game while little Anthony Burger was selected as the offensive player of the week. Burger's 66 yards in nine carries was more than half the Raiders' total yardage for the evening.

Offensive linemen who blocked well in the opening game were tackles Davey Locke and Clark Lloyd, center Dicky Sweet and right guard Lester Finney. Defensively, the Raider secondary, composed of Anthony Parrish, Bernard Hammond, Michael Washington and Willie Wright, all played well. Hedall Collins, David Kinlaw and Calvin Willis had strong games for the Raiders.

The Raiders travel to West Palm Beach Friday night for a game with the North Shore Mustangs. It was a bad snap from center that gave the Mustangs a 9-7 victory over the Raiders last year.

Game time will be 8 p.m. at North Shore's new football field.

Athletic Council To Hold Fish Fry

Members of the Glades Central Athletic Council are now selling tickets to a fish fry scheduled to take place at 6 p.m. Oct. 8 in the Glades Central Annex cafeteria. Council secretary Graham Frost, who is also the local high school's athletic director, said donations for the meal will be $3 per person, with all proceeds going to the GCHS Athletic Department.

The fish fry will take place just before the Raiders junior varsity plays a home game and Frost said diners can eat and walk right across the field to watch the game.

Library News

The Belle Glade Municipal Library staff often has requests from parents asking help in finding some "GOOD" children's picture books and juvenile stories.

Although there are many, many excellent and interesting children's books that never actually win a literary prize, the library staff have pulled from the regular juvenile collection some of the most highly recognized award winning children's books called the Caldecott and Newbery Medal Books.

This special collection of children's books is just ONE way of emphasizing some of the more notable books available for children and for their parents to read to them at the library.

The Newbery Medal was first offered in 1921 as an incentive for better quality in children's books. Named after John Newbery, the famous 18th century publisher and seller of children's books, it is now awarded annually to the author of the most distinguished contribution to American literature for children.

The 1974 winner is THE SLAVE DANCER by Paula Fox.

The Caldecott Medal was first offered in 1938 and is awarded annually to the artist of the most distinguished American picture book for children. The name of Randolph Caldecott, the famous English illustrator of books for children, was chosen for the medal because his work best represented "joyousness of picture books as well as their beauty. The 1974 winner is THE WIND AND THE WILLOW by Kenneth Grahame, illustrated by May and John Greenwood.

During all the award winning books are free and available to interested children and parents at the library circulation desk. The Belle Glade Municipal Library always attempts to have on display and for circulation books that may be of current interest. The popular television series LITTLE HOUSE ON THE PRAIRIE was inspired by the series of books written by Laura Ingalls Wilder following her adventures as a child through her later years as a wife and mother.

The library has this series of books which if read in chronological order would be: The Little House on the Big Woods, Little House on the Prairie, Far from the Oak Banks of Plum Creek, By the Shores of Silver Lake, The Long Winter, Little Town on the Prairie, These Happy Golden Years, and The First Four Years. The LITTLE HOUSE BOOKS give today's technology-survived child an opportunity to experience Laura Wilder's prairie world.

On the children's display also are the all-time favorite series THE WIZARD OF OZ books. More than five million copies of the Wizard of Oz have been sold since it was written in 1900.

A first edition of Wizard of Oz may sell as high as $1,000 today. The "Wizard" series are available at the library in a new attractive paperback version. The library has: The Wizard of Oz, The Wizard of Oz, The Emerald City, Ozma of Oz, and The Patchwork Girl.

It if I were, and I'm not a former warden, though I'd be proud of it if I were.

"I'm just a doctor," he said. "A retired doctor, if you please. But I'm glad to know I'm the reason you citizens of Florida could come out and hear something about your institution."

"I don't know how long you're going to let it swelter though Menninger said, referring to the heat in the dormitories and other buildings. "That's up to you Floridians, but you want 'em to swelter, let 'em swelter."

Menninger was touring GCI as part of a weekend he had spent in West Palm Beach as the guest of Banyan Psychiatric Institute.

Internationally known as a pioneer in prison reform, he has written several books including "The Crime of Punishment" and "Whatever Becomes of Sin."

He said the difference between crime and sin is that a criminal has violated laws written by men but a sinner has violated the laws of his conscience or his God.

"Our ex-President was pardoned for any crime he may have committed in office," Menninger noted, "but President Ford has no authority to pardon him for his sins, if he has committed any."

"He has to get that from his priest, his Lord or his conscience."

Menninger said punishment won't rehabilitate a criminal, that it simply makes him angry and bitter.

"There are any number of ways to make a Chinaman miserable," he said, "and we've tried most of them over the years in our prisons."

He compared the punishment of prisoners to the beating of children in school, pointing out children generally aren't beaten any more. He said patients in mental institutions were once beaten also but said today doesn't have the time or money to spend beating up people any more.

Drawing another parallel between schools and prisons, Menninger said prisons should be placed under the same boards who are in charge of operating state universities.

"Every prison," he said, "if it isn't an educational institution, should be a one. You have different customers but they're similar."

He said the customers of both prisons and universities have the reputation of "raising hell" but the public attitude toward students is one of friendly tolerance instead of the intolerance shown prisoners.

Expressing admiration for the administration of institutions such as GCI, Menninger said, "these people are doing things without the facilities of a doctor."

When he began speaking in the chapel, Menninger said he would give permission for photographers to take his picture on the condition they would turn over all the film to the institution as an educational tool, saying most such institutions are chronically short of educational material.

Merchants Discuss Problems

ention," Alderman told Bludworth. "Civil action would be fine but so many times, they don't have anything but what you're representing and you can't collect anything if you win. "A half dozen cases (precedents on criminal charges," Alderman said, "and the others would get the message."

When Charles Ward, owner of White's Auto Store, asked him, "What about when they cross the state line," Bludworth offered little hope of restitution.

He said the violation of the statute in a misdemeanor case, not a felony, and extradition cases on misdemeanors are so few as to make them rare.

Bludworth said another problem mentioned by Edward F. Davis Jr., manager of Lake Gas, probably wouldn't come under the statute but should come under another law.

Davis said he and Vernon L. Dexter, president of Glades Gas, have mutual problem of customers living in mobile homes taking leased gas tanks with them when they move.

Altman-Kirk Sworn In

City Commissioner Tom Altman became the youngest member of the city body Monday night when he and Ralph Kirk were sworn in by City Clerk Vera Jones. Altman, 23, was elected recently in a runoff against Eugene Harrison. Kirk's election is being contested in circuit court by his opponent, Jerry Roberts. The commission will hold a reorganization meeting Tuesday morning.

Kidney System Donated

A portable kidney perfusion system, which will keep deceased donor kidneys alive up to 72 hours, has been donated by the Florida Farm Bureau Women to Shands Teaching Hospital, University of Florida.

The official presentation was made Sept. 11 by Mrs. Virgil Holtsclaw, Trenton, chairwoman for the Florida Farm Bureau Women's Perfusion Project. Accepting the equipment on behalf of the hospital were Wayne Herbold, hospital director; Dr. William W. Pfaff, professor of surgery; Dr. Luis Juncos, assistant professor, renal medicine division; and Claire Day, R.N., coordinator, dialysis transplant program.

Other members of the Florida Farm Bureau Women's Committee attending the ceremony were: Mrs. John R. McCown, state chairwoman, Clermont; Mrs. Toke Colbert, state vice-chairwoman, Highland City; Mrs. W.O. Hardy, Bonifay; Mrs. Ernest A. Houck, Perry; Mrs. Jack Prazier, Williston; Mrs. James H. Dickinson, Frostproof; Mrs. Earl Carlton, Neocate; and Mrs. J.R. Brumley, Boca Raton.

The portable kidney transplant system and accompanying disposable cassette, made by Weiers Instruments, Inc., Rochester, Minnesota, were delivered to the hospital prior to the official presentation and immediately put into use, according to Dr. Pfaff, who is also chairman of renal transplantation at Shands.

Pfaff said acquisition of the $5,000 perfusion system "means our capabilities for kidney transplantation have been greatly increased."

The new system's portability is one of its most valuable features and enables transportation of donor organs by either ground or air to the Shands Teaching Hospital," he added.

It was pointed out that renal failure takes one life in Florida every 2 1/2 hours. The Florida Farm Bureau Women, dedicated to fighting this killer disease, have printed a brochure that describes some of the more common kidney ailments and disease symptoms.

They are continuing to raise money, and have set a goal of $60,000 for educational training and research in this field with plans to donate other perfusion systems to major medical centers in the state.

Anyone wishing to contribute to this worthwhile project may do so by sending a check to: Florida Farm Bureau Women's Fund, Inc. care of Mrs. Mildred Rutherford, P.O. Box 730, Gainesville, Fla. 32602. This is a non-profit, charitable organization.

Postmaster's Job Becomes Permanent

A temporary job became permanent recently when Ken Turner was named postmaster of the Belle Glade Post Office.

Assigned to the local post office in April, he was supposed to be filling in temporarily until a postmaster was found but Turner found himself with the job last week.

Turner said he has inherited a number of good employees in the local offices and with a certain amount of training, they would move up through the ranks.

"When I took the job," he said last week, "I told my boss the next postmaster in Belle Glade should come from Belle Glade, not be brought in from the outside."

He said training should be able to accomplish that goal.
